Health and Safety Authority

Who we are

The Health and Safety Authority was established back in 1989*. While our specific roles and responsibilities have developed over the years, our overall purpose has always been the same. We're responsible for the administration and enforcement of health and safety at work.

Right now, we're recruiting Grade III Inspectors across three of our diverse divisions to help us do what we do best, making a difference to workers across Ireland by keeping them safe and protected.

What we do

We have a very wide range of responsibilities across whole lot of areas, including occupational safety, occupational health and chemicals.

- We regulate the safety, health and welfare of people at work and those affected by work activities.
- We promote improvement in the safety, health and welfare of people at work and those affected by work activities.
- We regulate and promote the safe manufacture, use, placing on the market, trade and transport of chemicals.
- We act as a surveillance authority in relation to relevant single European market legislation.
- We act as the national accreditation body for Ireland.

*The Authority was established in 1989 under the Safety, Health and Welfare at Work Act 1989. Additional functions have been conferred on the Authority since then under the Safety, Health and Welfare at Work Act 2005, the Chemicals Acts 2008 and 2010 and other legislation. In 2014, the Irish National Accreditation Board (INAB) was included under the Authority's functions. The Authority reports to the Minister of State for Business, Employment and Retail under delegated authority from the Minister for Enterprise, Trade and Employment.

The Chief Executive Officer and the Assistant Chief Executives (ACEs) manage the implementation of strategy in line with the Authority's statutory responsibilities. Each Assistant Chief Executive has responsibility for the divisions as set out below.

- a) The Corporate Services division acts as the support structure for the Authority and that's what allows each of the other divisions to carry out what they do. The division is responsible for people and organisational development, finance, ICT, facilities, communications, legislation and corporate governance, procurement, strategic management including risk management, Freedom of Information, quality assurance and internal audit.
- b) The Chemicals and Industrial Products division has responsibility for international, EU and national legislation covering the safe manufacture, use, transport, import, trade and sale of chemicals and industrial products. This includes the market surveillance and assessment of chemicals or industrial products used in the workplace and by consumers. The responsibilities of various teams within the division cover a broad number of areas. For example, some inspectors are actively involved in EU legislative development, policy and guidance activities for chemicals such as the carriage of dangerous goods by road (ADR), COMAH, REACH or for Industrial Products such as machinery, pressure equipment, lifts etc. Other inspectors may be more active in undertaking inspections of products on the market or manufacturing/transport and distribution establishments.
- c) The Occupational Safety division is involved in the development and implementation of policy across specific sectors like construction, manufacturing, mining and quarrying, engineering and transport, as well as national inspection and investigation teams for occupational safety and health. It also incorporates the Authority's legal team who provide legal advice and handle prosecutions via the Office of Public Prosecution
- d) The Occupational Health division has responsibility for the development and implementation of policy and inspection programmes on occupational health and hygiene. The division also hosts the health and social care and agriculture, forestry and fishing national teams, which have a focus on occupational safety and health policy and inspection in these sectors. On top of all that, it has responsibility for the delivery of the Authority's enterprise and employee supports (BeSMART, HSAlearning, WorkPositive).

In addition, the Irish National Accreditation Board (INAB) provides the national accreditation service for Ireland. INAB was established in 1985 and is a Committee of the Health and Safety Authority under legislation (Safety, Health and Welfare at Work Act 2005, as amended by the Industrial Development (Dissolution of Forfas) Act 2014. Accreditation is the formal recognition that an organisation is competent to perform specific processes, activities, or tasks in a reliable, credible and accurate manner. INAB also reports directly to the CEO of the Health and Safety Authority.

If you'd like to know anything more about the Authority, including current structure, publications and key documents, you can take a look at www.hsa.ie

Eligibility to compete

Eligibility to compete is conditional on applicants, where relevant, having the necessary requisite work permit/visa/permission to enable them to work legally in the Republic of Ireland. The onus is on each applicant to satisfy themselves that they meet this requirement.

Selection Procedures

The Agency will use both essential and desirable requirements as referred to earlier in this candidate information booklet to shortlist candidates and scoring will be based on the information contained in the application form for the role.

The Authority, with the assistance of the Agency will convene an expert board to carry out the competitive stages of the selection process to the highest standard of best practice. Normally the number of applications received for a position exceeds that required to fill the vacancy. While candidates may meet the eligibility criteria of the competition, if the numbers applying for the post are such that it would not be practical to process all candidates to the next stage of the selection process, the Authority may decide that a certain number only will be progressed to the next stage. Candidates will be progressed through the various stages of the selection process based on their order of merit at each stage.

In the event of many applications the Authority may shortlist based on information provided in the application. It is therefore in your own interest to provide a detailed and accurate account of how your skills, personal qualities, qualifications, and experience meet the requirements of the post.

Selection methods may include:

- Shortlisting of applicants as outlined above
- Competitive initial/preliminary interview
- Online testing of candidate's abilities
- Written assessments with work sample test or other exercises
- Presentation to selection panel
- Competitive Final Interview
- Any other test or assessment as deemed appropriate including psychometric assessment.

Candidates will be required to attend for interview or any other tests at their own expense. It is not possible to alter the allocated interview/test date or time.

At the final stage, candidates who meet the required standard for the job are placed in order of merit and considered for appointment in that order.

We aim to accommodate candidates with no unnecessary obstacles placed in their way. We will assist candidates with disabilities, so they are provided with appropriate and reasonable accommodations to ensure that they have the best opportunity to perform to their optimum.

Prior to recommending any candidate for appointment to the position, the Agency will make all such enquiries that are deemed necessary to determine the suitability of that candidate. Until all stages of the recruitment process have been fully completed a final determination cannot be made nor can it be deemed or inferred that such a determination has been made.

Should the person recommended for appointment decline, or having accepted it, relinquish it, the Authority, with the assistance of the Agency, may at its discretion select and recommend another candidate for appointment based on the results of this selection process.

Communication with Candidates

The Authority conducts its recruitment in line with the Commission of Public Service Appointments (CPSA) Code of Practice. There is a commitment to open, timely and effective communication to candidates. Accurate, sufficient and appropriate documentation is issued to candidates. Enquiries are dealt with in an efficient and timely manner.

Clear, specific and meaningful feedback is provided when requested by candidates. Effective systems are in place to manage the feedback function.

The Authority's recruitment process is governed by the Freedom of Information Acts and candidates may request information in line with the requirements of that Act. It is Authority policy however to provide such information without the necessity for an FOI request.
